They're here to maintain order. But who are they?

Questions and Answers with
Albin Johnson, founder of the 501st!

1) What are your responsibilities as a member of the 501st?

As a member of the Legion, my number one job is to promote fun in the costuming hobby. Every member is supposed to have a quality costume ready for use in public events, to help promote the hobby of costuming, to make appearances for fun and for charity as often as possible, and to build a sense of community among our members. The whole point of the club is to have fun and do some good, so to those ends we operate under a code of conduct to carry ourselves professionally.

2) How did you create that awesome armor?

There is a loose community of hobbyists worldwide who each specialize in one of several different costuming practices. For the armor, most hobbyists sculpt a mold of the individual pieces and use vaccuform tables to pull heated sheets of plastic over the molds to create a rough finished product. These parts are then cut and finished and the entire thing put together with custom adjustments to fit a member as comfortably as possible.

3) What do you do when you're not on active duty in the Imperial Fleet?

Most members spend their off-time collecting Star Wars memorabilia, working on costuming techniques, building droids and props, or just conversing on one of several online chat forums. We have professionals from every walk of life in the Legion, so it's not surprising to find our off-duty members climbing mountains, enforcing the law, serving in the military, running computer networks, running businesses, raising kids, or even designing video games. This is a pretty interesting bunch!

4) Who would win in a battle and why— Darth Vader or Darth Maul?

Darth Vader, absolutely. There was a reason Darth Sidious hand-picked Anakin to be his protege - even though he was damaged in battle, the power of the Force is off the scale with him. I don't think the movies showed a fraction of what he was capable of doing in battle.

5) How does one join the 501st?

One merely needs to be at least 18 years old and own an approved costume. There are no membership fees. Approved costumes run the gamut from Imperial uniforms to armor to bounty hunter costumes to even Jawas or Sand People. Anyone in the movies or books or video games that is considered a 'bad guy' is eligible for being a costume in the 501st Legion.

6) What sort of activities does the 501st do as a unit?

The Legion tends to come together in person as one big unit for the larger conventions such as San Diego Comic Con, Dragon Con in Atlanta, and at any of the Star Wars Celebration conventions hosted by Lucasfilm. But we also come out in force for nationwide or worldwide initiatives that companies host over several sites. We have a pretty solid communications network - the Legion can deploy over 4000 members for any given task!

7) You guys aren't as scary as you look, are you?

Not at all. The Legion is made up of some of the kindest and most giving people you'll ever meet. Most members will tell you that they do this hobby for the looks of joy they create on kids' faces. There is a pure love for giving and entertaining in the ranks of the Legion.

8) Where can I find out more information about your organization?

You can visit us at our home site of www.501st.com. There, you'll find an easy-to-use interactive map to help you locate troopers in your area who can answer any questions you have. Also, you can submit requests for appearances for just about anywhere in the world.

9) Do stormtroopers have fun?

It's a well kept secret that we have more fun than most people. The public asks us why we do what we do. We reply that our members are smart enough to hold onto their childhood dreams and role-play our heroes while still supporting our communities in a positive way. Not many people can boast that. This is a fun club to be in!
